CITIZENS' COMMENTS

Chief Steve Ginnis, Executive Director of Fairbanks Native Association (FNA) – Chief Ginnis congratulated Chief Raygor on behalf of the FNA Board. He expressed his disappointment that the City Council had failed the land acknowledgment resolution. He shared that Native people and corporations contribute heavily to the local economy. Chief Ginnis mentioned the joint statement sent to the City Council on March 31, 2022, and the comment that followed by Council Member Clark who indicated that it was divisive measure guised as diversity. Chief Ginnis argued that the land acknowledgment is a statement built on history – not racism – and that it was important to show respect to the first people. He asked the Council to reconsider and listen to constituents.

Mr. Cleworth asked Chief Ginnis whether he believed the land acknowledgement was a political statement or a historical document. Chief Ginnis stated that it should be viewed as a statement based on history.

Dr. Jessica Black, Fairbanks – Dr. Black shared that she came from the villages of Fort Yukon and Nenana and provided a land acknowledgment. She added that she works for the University of Alaska Fairbanks (UAF) and serves as the FNA president. Dr. Black expressed her disappointment that the Council did not pass the land acknowledgement resolution, adding that it would have been a first step in improving relationships and increasing awareness of the history of Alaska.

Ms. Therrien asked Dr. Black if she had read the proposed language, and Dr. Black said she would like to revisit it before commenting.

Sharon McConnell, Fairbanks – S. McConnell gave a land acknowledgment, noting that it was a statement of recognition for the first people of the region. She shared that she had been involved in drafting the original language proposed by the resolution and that they had been honored to be involved in the City Council's request to consider a formal land acknowledgement; she noted, however, that the version presented by the Fairbanks Diversity Council (FDC) had been heavily edited. S. McConnell shared the process behind the drafting of the original language and the disappointment of the Elders to learn that their hard work had been rewritten. She added that the Elders had been surprised that the resolution had gone before the Council and failed. She added that if they had been aware of when the resolution was to be heard, they would have testified at that time. She asked that the Council reconsider its decision and choose to acknowledge and respect the diversity of the Fairbanks community and its ancestors.

Chief Reverend Dr. Anna Frank, Fairbanks – Dr. Frank shared some of her history in the Fairbanks area, adding that she did want not to see Native children being disregarded and left out of the narrative. Dr. Frank stated that all people need to work together and respect one another, adding that values written on paper are best discussed, not simply looked at.

Reverend Shirley Lee, FNA Justice Director – Rev. Lee spoke to the history of the local ancestors and the hardships they suffered, adding that reading a small land acknowledgement before City Council meetings would go a long way in strengthening bonds. She noted that Native leadership contributes a great deal to the City and asked that the Council reconsider its action and approve a land acknowledgement.

David Costello, Fairbanks – D. Costello spoke in favor of a tax exemption for new multi-unit developments, adding that he has been a general contractor in the area for over 20 years. He noted that the proposed exemption would be in line with the recently adopted exemption by the Fairbanks North Star Borough (FNSB). He highlighted portions of the Borough's resolution, adding that he had already applied for their exemption. He added that the process is lengthy and, if approved, he would not be able to start construction until mid- or late June.

Christina Carlson, Fairbanks – C. Carlson shared that she is the head teacher at Chinook Montessori Charter School and asked the Council to consider another ordinance to provide tax relief for charter schools; she added that such exemptions are in place in Anchorage and Mat-Su.

Tanya Kaquatosh, Fairbanks – T. Kaquatosh stated that the Doyon Corporation represents over 20,000 shareholders with more than a quarter of them living in the Fairbanks area. She shared her personal experience attending schools in the Fairbanks area, adding that she had attended Stanford and Arizona State University, where she obtained her master's degree. She spoke in support of the City adopting a land acknowledgement, likening it to the opening invocation, which she believed was given with nothing but good intentions. She added that she did not believe it was failed with intentional disrespect to the Native community, but she did believe that the relationship between the two could be improved. She stated that she would personally like to see the acknowledgement in place as a proud Native parent who is raising a proud Native daughter.

Scott McCrea, Explore Fairbanks Executive Director – S. McCrea spoke in favor of the City Council reconsidering the adoption of a land acknowledgement, noting that Explore Fairbanks had adopted the same acknowledgement the previous summer. He added that he did not feel that the reading of the acknowledgement before each meeting detracted from the business at hand. He shared that part of the Explore Fairbanks pride is in recognizing the Native culture along with the landscape and wildlife.

Roscoe Britton, No Limits Program Director – R. Britton shared that he had planned on testifying in regard to a different topic but opted to defer that testimony so that the current issue regarding the land acknowledgment could be addressed. He spoke in favor of the land acknowledgment.

David van den Berg, Downtown Association (DTA) Executive Director – D. van den Berg spoke in support of Resolution No. 5009. He also spoke to the Work Session regarding the Downtown Plan, expressing his concern that the FSNB may take some unwanted liberties. He stated it is a good idea to see an early draft of the plan so that the City may properly respond.

Tim Staton, Fairbanks – T. Staton expressed concern about vendor booth placement during the Midnight Sun Festival, adding that he had been told that planning meetings were not yet scheduled by Mr. van den Berg. He shared his desire to meet one-on-one with the DTA to discuss issues for business owners. He added that some of the statements made during the Work Session were unfair and inflammatory regarding the Parking Authority. T. Staton added that the DTA has not communicated with the Parking Authority outside of asking for information, noting that the contract between the City and the Parking Authority does not concern the DTA. He added that the DTA is detrimental to many of the downtown businesses in some respects, and that has kept some business owners from joining the organization.

Mayor Matherly asked that Mr. Staton email the Council.

Hearing no more requests for in-person comment, individuals on Zoom were heard next.

Dewey Kk'oleyo Hoffman, Fairbanks – D. Hoffman spoke in support of the resolution regarding the land acknowledgement, adding that he was the Deputy Director of Tribal Government Client Services at the Tanana Chiefs Conference. He shared an introduction in his Native language. He added that the land acknowledgement helps shed light on Native history while also showing respect to the Native ancestors.

Hearing no more requests for comment, Mayor Matherly declared Citizens' Comments closed.

He wished everyone a happy Easter, noting the public service that would be held at the bridge downtown on Sunday at 7:00 a.m. Mayor Matherly thanked those present during the Work Session, noting that over 9,000 parking spaces are available in the downtown area, even though some of them belong to private businesses. He went on to speak to the concerns regarding the street fair downtown, noting that not everyone can be pleased all the time, but he understood Mr. Staton's concerns. He encouraged Mr. Staton to work with the DTA, as they were the organization putting on that event. He also noted that Mr. Staton's complaint regarding booth placement is the only complaint that he has heard. Mayor Matherly spoke to the land acknowledgement testimony, noting that former Council Member Kun had read it at every meeting; he noted that he recently attended a Native leadership meeting regarding public safety.

COUNCIL MEMBERS' COMMENTS

Mr. Gibson congratulated Chief Raygor and stated he is excited to see what the Chief would bring to the Fire Department.

Mr. Marney thanked Chief Raygor for accepting the position. He thanked all those who testified regarding failed Resolution No. 4981, adding that he had a great deal of respect for the Native people of Alaska and their culture. He noted that the comments gave him new perspectives to consider. He went on to express his hope that the DTA, Parking Authority, and Festival Fairbanks could better communicate and work together.

Mr. Clark thanked those who testified and clarified that the message intended in his response to the letter from the Native leadership was that by formally acknowledging one population within the City, others are effectively excluded. He stated that his belief does not diminish the respect he holds for the Native population and culture. He addressed the water on roadways, noting that he nearly splashed a pedestrian unintentionally; he asked drivers to be courteous and aware.

Ms. Therrien thanked everyone for their testimony, noting that it was unfortunate that the testimony had come too late for the consideration of the land acknowledgement. She thanked Mr. Costello for his comments regarding the FNSB tax exemption and shared that a City ordinance was still in the works. Ms. Therrien added that the DTA and Mr. Staton need to work together to find a solution, adding that moving the stands seemed like a simple fix to the issues presented.

Ms. Rogers thanked Chief Raygor and recognized his promotion. She added that the testimony was very positive and respectful and thanked those who took the time to speak. She spoke to the idea of active and respectful listening, adding that she had hope for a brighter and more connected community moving forward.

Mr. Cleworth spoke to Mr. Staton's comments and to the issue of vendors being set up on the sidewalk; he added that having the event on Sunday is also troublesome. He recognized Chief Raygor in his new appointment. Mr. Cleworth spoke to the testimony regarding the land acknowledgement, expressing concern that the relationship between the City and the Native community has not always been amicable. He noted that it should concern everyone to hear such comments but noted some of the growth and improvements over the years. He added that he did not feel that it was fair to consider the vote regarding the reading of a land acknowledgement as a lack of respect or appreciation for the Native population and culture. Mr. Cleworth added that he would still be in favor of adding the land acknowledgement as a permanent historical record to be displayed in City Council Chambers, clarifying that he felt the reading of a document as normal part of business devalues the meaning of the statement over time.

Ms. Therrien added to her previous comments by congratulating Chief Raygor and wishing everyone a happy Easter.

Murkowski had done most of the heavy lifting. Ms. Rogers confirmed that the discussions have always revolved around Sen. Murkowski and her involvement.

Mr. Clark explained that he appreciated Ms. Therrien’s intent behind the resolution but stated that he does not support the overall cost of the infrastructure bill where the funds originated.

Mr. Cleworth acknowledged Mr. Clark’s concern over the cost of the infrastructure bill, especially given that there was no associated funding source. He stated, however, that the City might as well get a small portion of the funds as everyone will be paying for the bill in one way or another.

Ms. Therrien asked for the Council's support of the resolution.

Mayor Matherly shared his appreciation for the work done to obtain the funds for the Polaris Building, adding that he could not see a future where the City would ever have enough funds to demolish the building on its own. He added that each year the cost and risk of the project escalates.

He spoke to the Clerk's quarterly report regarding the FNSB election ordinance and asked that the Council begin discussing the potential effects it may have on the City elections.

Mr. Gibson stated he had no comments.

Mr. Cleworth echoed Mr. Marney's concern about the FNSB election ordinance being introduced, adding that he had previously believed that it was not legally possible to combine state and local elections on the same day. He added that it would be good to discuss the issue with the Clerk at a Finance Committee meeting, possibly obtaining the Borough Clerk's opinion as well. He noted that it would be good to have a resolution or opinion to present to the FNSB Assembly. Mr. Cleworth shared that he had visited Galveston, Texas recently and noted that Fairbanks sidewalks are in better shape and are more ADA compliant than in Galveston; he noted also that Galveston is a wealthier community. He stated that it had been a good experience to tour other communities and see how differently things are done. He requested that the Administration provide the number of grievances that have been filed at the City and how they impact City departments.

Ms. Rogers thanked the Clerk for her quarterly report, noting that she appreciates receiving her insight.

Ms. Therrien spoke to the changes made to the AML annual conference, which was also noted in the City Clerk's report; she stated she had been working with CFO Bell in regard to budget meetings in light of the change. Mayor Matherly declared the meeting adjourned at 8:18 p.m.
